Privacy Policy

Effective Date: September 18, 2026

At Brainstorm Speech Therapy, we value your privacy and believe in being transparent about how our website works.

Information Collected Through This Website

Brainstorm does not use this website to directly collect clinical or health information.

We do not use Wix forms for appointment requests or intake. If you choose to schedule an appointment or begin services, you will be directed to a secure scheduling or client portal connected to our electronic medical record system.

Information entered through that system is handled according to its applicable privacy and security practices and, when applicable, Brainstorm's Notice of Privacy Practices.

Website & Cookie Information

Like most websites, our Wix website may automatically use cookies and similar technologies necessary for security, website functionality, and performance.

Additional cookies may be used if analytics or other third-party website tools are enabled.

You can review available choices through our Cookie Preferences settings.

Scheduling & External Services

Our website may include links or embedded tools that connect you with services we use for scheduling, client communication, or other practice functions.

When you use one of these services, the information you provide is processed through that service rather than through a general Brainstorm website form.

Protected Health Information

Please do not send confidential medical or health information through regular email or other unsecured communication methods.

Clinical information and protected health information related to Brainstorm services are handled according to applicable privacy requirements and our Notice of Privacy Practices.
